

The Department of Sociology at New York University invites applications for one or more faculty positions at either the assistant or recently tenured level. Substantive areas are open, but applicants must demonstrate excellence in research. Positions at the assistant professor level would be tenure-track. Positions are to begin September 1, 2008, with PhD required by the time of appointment, pending budgetary and administrative approval. Initial application deadline is September 15, 2007, but all applications received will be considered until the positions are filled. New York University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

link: <http://sociology.as.nyu.edu/object/soc.facultysearch.html>

If you have any questions about the search, please feel free to contact Lauren Holmes at 212 998 8365 or lauren.holmes@nyu.edu.